

ABSTRACT

Method for handling microparticles in such a manner, that at least two treatment steps are performed for microparticles in the same vessel without moving the particles to another vessel.

5 There are organs in the device for changing the solution without having to move the microparticles to another vessel.